Biological Recording for NE Scotland and the Cairngorms

Glenn Roberts (NESBReC)

The North East Scotland Biological Records Centre (NESBReC) collates biological information for the Grampian area and the Cairngorms National Park and provides this to decision makers, education and conservation bodies and the public. Glenn Roberts (Co-ordinator) will present an illustrated talk on NESBReC's work in collecting information on flora and fauna. As well as maintaining the database of over 1.2 million species records, NESBReC runs identification courses and is about to publish a full colour mammal atlas with accounts of the 40 species in the area. The lecture will be a treat for nature lovers.
